Gun Owner? Important Information Below...

If you are a gun owner, it is important to prepare for your incapacity and death by responsibly addressing the possession and transfer of your firearms in compliance with state and federal law while keeping your private affairs out of the public court system.

Possession of a firearm is regulated by both state and federal law. The law provides that a “prohibited person” may not own or possess a firearm. “Prohibited persons” include the following:

- a. felons;
- b. fugitives from justice;
- c. persons addicted or users of illegal drugs;
- d. persons who have been involuntarily committed;
- e. illegal aliens and persons with non-immigrant visas;
- f. persons who renounced their citizenship;
- g. persons the subject of protective orders and similar orders;
- h. persons convicted of crimes of domestic violence;
- i. incapacitated individuals; and
- j. minors.

Accordingly, if you are a gun owner, a “prohibited person” can not serve as the executor of your estate, the trustee of a trust, or an agent under a power of attorney. Furthermore, you can not name a “prohibited person” to receive your guns upon your death.

A Gun Trust can address issues related to the possession and transfer of your firearms in the event you become incapacitated or pass away. A Gun Trust is even more important for gun owners whose collections include NFA firearms. Unlike other firearms, NFA firearms can only be possessed by the person to whom the firearm is registered. There are no exceptions for family members or other people living in the same household. In addition to the reasons set forth above, a Gun Trust ensures family members are not in violation of the law and gives a gun owner the ability to share NFA firearms with other law-abiding individuals in compliance with state and federal law.

What is a Gun Trust?

A Gun Trust is a special purpose trust designed to hold all your firearms and firearms related accessories. A Gun Trust protects your firearms from going through a public guardianship proceeding if you become incapacitated. A Gun Trust also protects your firearms from going through a public probate process--a court proceeding to administer a deceased person’s assets. A public probate may result whether you have a will or no estate planning documents in place. Remember, probate can make your guns and other assets publicly known. A Gun Trust can help you avoid the probate process.

A Gun Trust contains very specific instructions to the Trustee regarding how to legally transfer NFA and Non-NFA firearms upon your death in compliance with state and federal law. Without a Gun Trust, the executor of your estate could easily violate state and federal law transferring your firearms to the beneficiaries of your estate. A Gun Trust allows you to designate a beneficiary of a specific firearm or accessory upon your death by using a written memorandum, which can be easily changed and amended during your lifetime. This will allow you to pass on your firearms to those you want to have and enjoy them.

A Gun Trust is a superior way to acquire and possess NFA firearms and accessories, and to share them with greater protection against commission of an “accidental felony.” This is our catchphrase to describe a transfer resulting in the unlawful possession and transfer of an NFA firearm at a time when you and the other person truly believed you were acting lawfully. With a Gun Trust, you can document why someone other than you is in possession of your NFA firearm! Both federal and state law make it a crime for another person to possess your NFA firearm.

What if I already purchased a gun trust from a gun dealer?

Gun Trusts purchased from gun dealers are generic, canned documents that provide very little benefit to the gun owner. This type of gun trust is primarily designed to allow another person or persons to be able to use an NFA firearm during the lifetime of the Settlor of the trust. However, this type of gun trust misses the mark on what happens when the gun owner dies or becomes incapacitated.

If firearms are an important part of your life, a Gun Trust will help you and those you care about lawfully enjoy your firearms during your lifetime. When it is time to pass on, the memories you’ve created can be passed on, honored, and continued by those you select to receive your firearms in compliance with state and federal law. Planning for your firearms is a way to protect, preserve, and pass on something that is important to you.

EXECUTORS:

You will need to name an Executor. Upon your death, your Executor will be in charge of identifying and collecting all of your assets, paying all of your final debts, bills, and expenses, and distributing your remaining assets according to the terms and provisions of your Last Will and Testament. We also recommend that you name one or more successor Executors if the first Executor you have named is unable to serve. Please take some time to consider who you would like to name as Executor and successor Executor(s).

TRUSTEES OF DESCENDANTS' TRUSTS:

If you have minor children, we recommend you leave assets to them in trust until such time as they reach an age when they are mature enough to manage their inheritance themselves. You will need to name an individual or corporate trustee to serve as Trustee for your minor children. We also recommend that you name one or more successor Trustees to serve in the event the primary Trustee is unable to serve. Please take some time to consider who you would like to name as primary and successor Trustees.

STATUTORY DURABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY:

The Statutory Durable Power of Attorney is a very powerful document designed to allow the designated person or persons to manage your financial affairs in the event you become incapacitated. For instance, your agent will have the power to do such things as buy and sell real estate, open and close bank accounts, and sign tax returns. These are just a few of the powers commonly given to an agent. Accordingly, your agent needs to be a person you trust completely.

We recommend that you name a primary agent on this document. We also recommend that you name one or more successor agents to serve in the event the primary agent is unable to serve. Please take some time to consider who you would like to name as primary and successor agents.

HIPAA AUTHORIZATION and MEDICAL POWER OF ATTORNEY:

The HIPAA Authorization includes release language addressing the issue of privacy relating to your medical information. The HIPAA release language allows the designated person or persons to obtain all medical information about you. This release language is in response to a privacy law, known as the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, which makes it difficult for anyone other than you to obtain this type of information.

The Medical Power of Attorney allows the designated person or persons to consent to medical care on your behalf should you suffer an injury or become mentally disabled. The Medical Power of Attorney is designed to become effective if you become unable to make health care decisions and that fact is certified in writing by a physician. The appointed agent may consent, refuse to consent, or withdraw consent to medical treatment and may make decisions about withdrawing or withholding life-sustaining treatment. The agent's authority begins when the physician certifies that you no longer have the capacity to make health care decisions. Unless stated otherwise, the named agent has the same authority to make decisions about your health care as you would have had.

We recommend that you name a primary agent on this document. We also recommend that you name one or more successor agents to serve in the event the primary agent is unable to serve. Please take some time to consider who you would like to name as primary and successor agents.

DECLARATION OF GUARDIAN FOR MINOR CHILDREN:

If you have minor children, the Declaration of Guardian allows you to name a person or persons to serve as guardians for the minor child or children named in the form in the event you pass away or become incapacitated before they attain the age of eighteen. If you have minor children, please take some time to consider who you would want making legal and medical decisions for them. If you want to name a married couple as guardian for your minor children, then if one of those two individuals were unable to serve as guardian, would you want the remaining individual to serve alone as guardian for your minor children, or if such event occurred, would you rather your second choice of guardian serve?
